- (4) A disposition executed before the commencement day is not, for the purposes of paragraph (1), to be treated as executed on or after that day by reason only that the will or instrument in which it appears has been confirmed by a codicil or further instrument executed on or after that day.

8E Presumptions of survivorship relating to illegitimate child

- (1) Unless the contrary is proved, an illegitimate child shall be presumed not to have been survived by his or her father or by any person related to the child only through the child’s father.

PART 4COMMORIENTES*9 Declaration of survivorship or simultaneous death

- (1) Where 2 or more persons appear to have died in circumstances rendering it uncertain which of them survived the other or others, any interested person may apply to the Court for an order declaring that the persons who appear to have died in such circumstances shall be deemed to have died simultaneously or, as the case may be, declaring that one or more of those persons survived another or others.
- (2) Where any application is made under this Article –
 - (a) notice thereof shall be given in such manner as the Court may direct, and any other interested person may intervene and be heard;
 - (b) the Court shall examine the evidence produced by the applicant and by any person intervening and may order such other persons to be convened, such additional evidence to be heard and such further enquiries to be made as the Court thinks necessary.
- (3) In any proceedings under this Article –
 - (a) the onus of proving the survivorship or predecease of any person shall rest on the party asserting it;
 - (b) in the absence of corroborating evidence, the Court shall not be bound to accept the accuracy of any statement specifying the time of death of a deceased person contained in any certificate issued, or register of deaths maintained, by any person or authority, or in any report of an inquest or other official inquiry.
- (4) On any application for an order under this Article the Court shall not make an order in respect of any deceased person unless it is satisfied that –
 - (a) at the time of death the deceased person was domiciled in Jersey;
 - (b) at the time of death the deceased person owned, or was entitled to an interest in, movable or immovable property situate in Jersey; or
 - (c) the right of the deceased person to any movable or immovable property or to any interest therein was, or could have been, affected by the death of another person in respect of whom the Court has power to make an order on an application under this Article.
- (5) If at the conclusion of proceedings under this Article the Court is of the opinion that the sequence in which some or all of the deceased persons named in the application died has not been established beyond reasonable doubt, the Court shall make an order declaring that such persons shall be deemed to have died simultaneously.
- (6) If at the conclusion of proceedings under this Article the Court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that a deceased person named in the application survived another deceased person therein named for any period of time, the Court may make an order declaring that the one survived the other.

- (7) An order made under paragraph (5) or (6) shall be binding on all persons for all purposes affecting the title to –

10 Effect of declaration of simultaneous death

- (1) Where the Court has made an order under Article 9(5) the estate of any deceased person named in the order shall, subject to the provisions of this Article, be held or distributed in the way that it would have been had no other deceased person named in the order survived that deceased person.
- (2) Where deceased persons named in an order made under Article 9(5) owned property jointly, their joint ownership shall, subject to any order of the Court, be deemed to have become ownership in common in equal shares at the time of their decease:

Provided that this paragraph –

- (a) shall not apply in any case where deceased persons named in the order owned property jointly with another person who survived them;
 - (b) shall not be construed as derogating from the rule of customary law relating to avancement de succession.
- (3) Where a will contains a gift which is to take effect only in the event of some person having predeceased the testator, the gift shall not fail solely by reason that the Court had made an order declaring that the testator and such person shall be deemed to have died simultaneously, but it shall take effect in the same manner as if such person had predeceased the testator.
 - (4) An order made by the Court declaring that an intestate and the intestate's heir shall be deemed to have died simultaneously shall not deprive any descendant of the heir of any right to represent the heir in the distribution of the estate of the intestate which the descendant would have had if the heir had predeceased the intestate:

Provided that if the heir leaves a surviving spouse or surviving civil partner, that spouse or that civil partner shall have the same rights in respect of the immovable estate of the heir as that spouse or that civil partner would have had if the heir had died after the death of the intestate.²¹

11 Testamentary direction as to survivorship

Nothing in this Part shall be construed as derogating from the right of a testator by express provision in a will to direct that if 2 or more persons named in the will shall have died in circumstances rendering uncertain which of them survived the other or others then one or more of such persons shall be deemed to have survived the other or others, and in any such case the will shall be construed without regard to any contrary provisions of this Law.
